Thought for the week

There is a story from early Christian history, which tells of a holy man, much given to disciplined prayer and fasting, who goes on a journey, taking with him a Gallic peasant as a companion and servant. The going is tough, especially for the servant who carries the luggage and food. Eventually the servant asks the holy man if they might stop and eat, to renew their strength. The response is not what he is looking for. "The angels in heaven", the holy man points out, "need no food or rest, but are strengthened by the praise of God. ! The Gallic response is sharp and to the point—and perhaps more theologically and spiritually wise; "Yes, but we are men! We are foolish to pretend we are angels when we are not"

This may seem an odd way to begin reflection on today's readings, which are focused on marriage, first in creation and then in Christian life. Yet the questions of how the most intimate daily living of our relationships can be blessed are based in a deeper place—the graced gift of creation and the living of holy life as a bodily matter. This is the lesson that the holy man needed to learn from his more "earthy" companion—and it can be a lesson of hope and renewal of us today. It is the fundamental learning needed for blessed Marriages and Family relationships, and for human friendships more widely.

- ◆ Jesus understands the complexities of Marriage and Family life.
- ◆ The significance of God "taking on Flesh" and suffering in the incarnation; a call to a holiness embodied in the challenge of small practical acts of loving in our lives and homes.

MOTHERS PRAYER GROUP

Are you worried about your children or grandchildren? Have they stopped going to church? Are they taking drugs or drinking too much? In today's increasingly secular society, Jesus more than ever wishes all mothers to surrender their children into His care, to take away pain from the mothers and to pour blessings on their children.

There have been many wonderful answers to prayers.

If any of this strikes a chord with you, do join us.

We currently meet at St Bedes at 10.30am every Thursday in term time. Please get in touch even if you cannot make the time of the meeting and we will try to arrange a time that suits everyone.
